OPERATIONS & IT ACADEMY BEING A TRUSTED TRANSFORMATIONAL ADVISER TO THE C-SUITE

DESCRIPTION

Being able to influence upper level management, get buy-in for critical projects, and consult on complex topics are crucial skills to possess in an environment that is fast moving, undergoing change and pulling executives in many different directions.

This training will support managers and senior experts in becoming a trusted partner for C-Level executives and the Board. Participants will learn from a very experienced external senior consultant and an executive coach to become more aware of themselves and to better support the C-Suite.

OBJECTIVES

During the program, participants will:

- Learn how to provide added value for upper level management, especially in critical situations
- Gain a better understanding on being a trusted partner and better consultant
- Discover more about their strengths and how they can best leverage them
- Enhance their techniques and tools for researching, testing, and preparing for their particular audience and clients

TARGET AUDIENCE

Experienced managers and senior experts from all functions who drive complex projects and/or interact regularly with upper level management, C-Suite executives, and board members.

YOUR LEARNING EXPERIENCE

Prior to the program, participants will be asked to prepare an up to date case and participate in a psychometric test.

The program helps senior professionals excel in their C-Suite interaction through intensive preparation and tailored coaching approaches. It will include a variety of interactive training techniques and tools such as the STAR® methodology, the C-Suite audience span analysis and client targeting, individual coaching and feedback sessions, a psychometric test, peer coaching and role plays. Participants will focus on using their own individual cases to develop vital skills to grab management's attention on a daily basis.
